

WAITING FOR RAIN 2024

Limited edition artist book
by Macy Chadwick

In the news, icebergs are melting, global temperatures are rising, storms are getting more intense. For me, living on a rural property in Northern California, climate change has become more vivid: the landscape around me is parched for 6 months a year and the threat of wild fires looms ever closer. I purchase air purifiers and use an app to track the source of smoke plumes I see on the horizon. Every fall I eagerly await the first rain, then reckon with rising flood waters. In my artist book, Waiting for Rain, I bear witness to this cycle of beauty and devastation.
